Fate of hillclimb event could bring a lawsuit

By HAMISH GORDON
Staff Reporter

In a desperate attempt to save his livelihood and the fourth Canadian National Hillclimbing Championships on August 17, Bill Thomas of Wilberforce has served five-time champion motorcycle hillclimber and promoter John Williams with notice of a $500,000 law suit, "to keep him quiet."

Thomas' lawyer, John Gorman of Unionville, a civil rights activist and would-be prime minister of Canada during the Liberal leadership campaign last year, has billed the civil action as a "country boy" facing off with a "big city slicker."

A month ago, Williams, vice-president of the American Hillclimbers Association and founder of Canada's only professional hillclimbing event, telephoned The Haliburton County Echo from his home in Markham, Ontario, to inform the public that there will be "no more professional hillclimbing events this year or ever on Bill's Hills" near Wilberforce. Professional motorcycle hillclimbing "is absolutely finished" in Wilberforce, Williams told the Echo.

He also contacted other news publications in the surrounding area, to make unsolicited statements condemning this year's Canadian Motorcycle Association sanctioned event, Thomas said.

Williams' alleged defamatory statements about Thomas' hillclimb were also quoted in the July issue of Cycle World magazine.

"He (Williams) wants to destroy the event that he built up over the last three years" with the help of Thomas and the Wilberforce community, Thomas said.

Last week Thomas said workers, who helped build and condition the hill on his property remained unpaid. He said he hopes to pay the debts if the event is a success this year.

However, Williams told the Echo last month that it was only with his influence with sponsors, his promotional expertise and entrepreneurial skills that a professional event could

Police say long weekend relatively uneventful

The Ontario Provincial Police enjoyed a relatively uneventful August first weekend this year with no major occurrences, an OPP spokesman said Tuesday.

There were 22 traffic accidents with seven people injured, although no one was seriously hurt. Further details were unavailable Tuesday.

Only one radar unit was manned through the weekend in an attempt to crack down on speeders, acting detachment commander, Corporal Steven Adams said.

"It was as really good weekend," he said. But, Adams said, this weekend's traffic enforcement statistics "aren't as high as we would have liked, simply because we were so busy with all the other complaints" involving minor disturbances.

Nevertheless, 21 speeders and careless drivers were penalized over the weekend and six people were fined for non-moving violations, such as failing to wear a seat belt, Adams said. Ten impaired driving charges were laid. Two break and enter cases were reported, one at a house trailer and the other at the Cobler Store in Minden, where goods and cash valued at $2,500 were stolen. A Paris, Ontario man, Beresford Thames, was later found to be in possession of some of the stolen property and charged with that offense. The investigation is continuing.

About a dozen Saddle Tramp bikers from Owen Sound stayed at the Paradise Cove but as usual, Adams said, they were well behaved.

The boys from Irondale threw a lot of weight behind the rope in a tug-of-war between heats at Gooderham's Horseshoe Days on Sunday, but they weren't strong enough to hold off the challenge of Gooderham on the other end. Gooderham eventually won the title. For more on Horseshoe Days, see page 8.

Wild Water Preserve will host national Minden's Wild Water Preserve will throng with sleek kayakers and cheering spectators this coming weekend as the Canadian National Whitewater Championships bring dozens of top class paddlers to the Highlands.

A number of the competitors have just returned from the world championships in Augsburg, West Germany, and are expected to be in top form for the national event.

Practice runs begin on Friday afternoon on the surging Gull River course, with paddlers leaving the pool below the Horseshoe Lake dam to negotiate the gates at one minute intervals.

The competition is scheduled for Saturday. It begins at 9:30 a.m. with the first runs. Racers will set off at two minute intervals down the quarter mile course, hoping to negotiate the gates cleanly and in the shortest possible time. The winner is the racer who has the best combined actual and penalty point adjusted time.

The second runs will take place in the afternoon beginning at 1 p.m., with the championship decided by the lowest cumulative time for the morning and afternoon runs.

Trophies will be presented at a ceremony open to the public which is scheduled for 8 p.m.

The Preserve will also be in use on Sunday for a 'Rapid Race'. This event, open to all paddlers, is a pure test of speed. The challenge is to run the course, without gates, from top to bottom in the shortest possible time.

The Wild Water Preserve is open to the public throughout the weekend, and there is no admission charge.

Mental survey begins

Project co-ordinators asking public to help

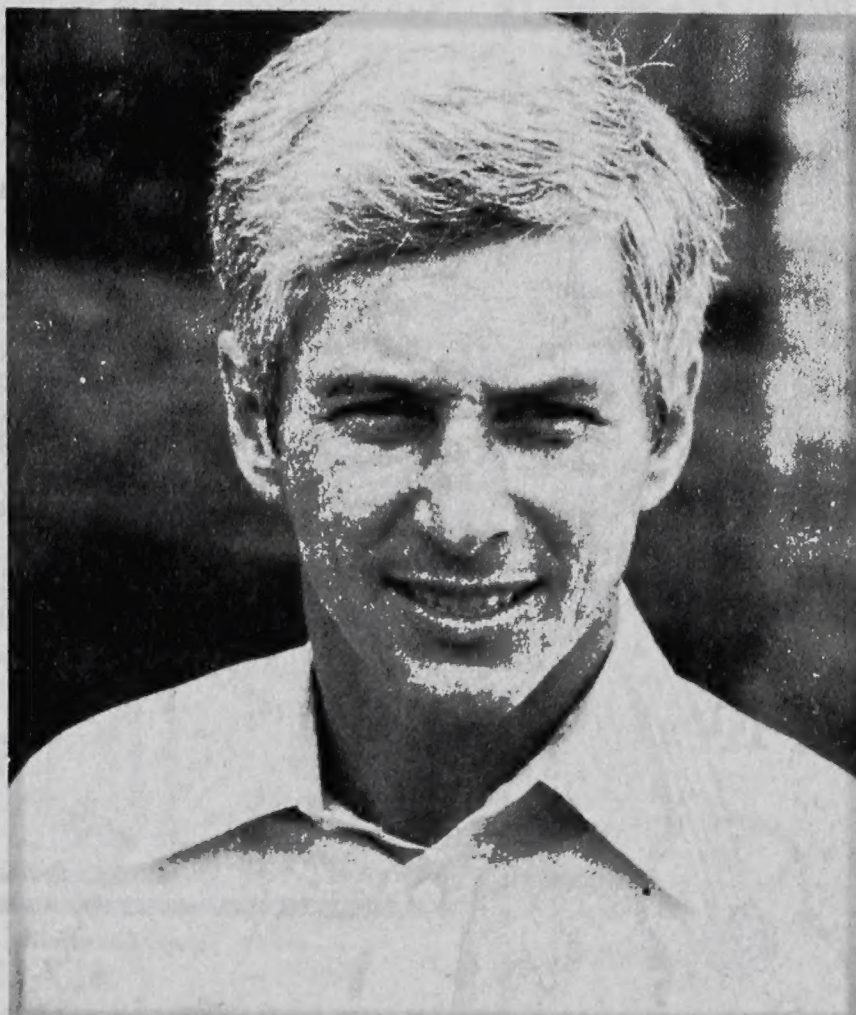

The Canadian Mental Health Association/Peterborough is supervising a project on mental health services in Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge District. The survey of volunteer psychiatric patients will provide CMHA and other agencies with valuable information on how people feel about the services they receive. The work is being performed by two university students on a Student Employment/Experience Development grant.

"The survey is the first step in getting an idea of what services are needed by people who are moving back into the community from an in-patient setting," said Michael Theall, one of the two students working on the project. Theall and his coworker, Catherine Hoyt, will be spending the next two months collecting and then reporting on the information they gather.

"We are trying to get as many opinions from as many current and previous users of psychiatric facilities as we can," Hoyt said. "We will be travelling around the whole district, from Haliburton to Colborne and beyond, interviewing psychiatric service users on issues such as housing, vocational & educational programs, financial problems, employment, social/recreational issues and therapy."

CMHA/Peterborough promotes care for the mentally ill and emotionally disabled. Along with speakers and educational activities, it provides a bus service to Kingston for friends and relatives of in-patients, and runs a transition home and two group homes for individuals moving back into the community after in-patient treatment.

Andrew Hemphill

New principal hired at HHSS

By HAMISH GORDON
Staff Reporter

Andrew Hemphill, a 40 year old, former vice-principal of Tabor Park Vocational School in Scarborough has been appointed principal of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School for a term of three years, the Haliburton County Board of Education announced last week.

Hemphill replaces Dale Robinson who has accepted the position of Curriculum Co-ordinator for the board.

"On approval by the Scarborough board, the Haliburton County board will for a term of three years purchase my services (as principal) from the Scarborough board but I will also remain an employee of Scarborough. But this of course corresponds to the terms of Dale Robinson's appointment as co-ordinator," Hemphill said.

"I hope to stay after my three years is up but the reality" is that Robinson will return unless he applies for another position when his appointment as co-ordinator expires, Hemphill said.

Hemphill, who has been a cottager in the area for the past 15 years, says he applied for the position here because of the lifestyle that Haliburton has to offer.

Two days before his interview for the position Hemphill returned from a nine day wilderness canoe trip in the area.

When asked what directives he hopes to initiate in his first year as principal, Hemphill said he will continue the variety of initiatives already underway, such as the efforts to ensure a sequential learning path in the basic communication and computation subjects.

From his past experience as head of science at Bethune Collegiate and associate chairman of Science and Technology at L'Amoreaux Collegiate, Hemphill said his impression is that communication skills being taught in schools generally "is happening to a highly adequate degree."

But what schools and boards have not done however is "made the public aware that the same high standards of basic education are still occurring. Too many other aspects of the education system are highlighted and being perceived as frills. So if their is a job to be done, it is to ensure that we are doing what our mandate is (providing pupils with the basics). Schools haven't generally done a good job at selling the service that we do provide for the communities."

Fundamentally, Hemphill says he sees the Highlands Secondary School as a "strong, well established school system that delivers what the community wants." Understanding the problems of students in a small community where the students have a high profile outside the school "will be different (rather than easier) than understanding the problems of students" in a large urban community, such as Scarborough, Hemphill says.

"By different," Hemphill says, "I think this school by its nature would exert a much closer influence on its students than perhaps a school in a more urban area."

Galway/Cavendish consider severances

At its most recent meeting, Galway/Cavendish township council considered the following matters:

David Wilson, acting as spokesman for the Back Bay Cottagers Association, requested that council purchase and assume the right-of-way running through Lots 17 and 18, concession 12 Galway, belonging to Ted Collins, which leads to Back Bay Development. Reeve Brickman explained the criteria necessary before the Township will assume any road into the road system. Wilson agreed to the Association paying all costs, if the Township would handle the transaction.

Roads Voucher #7 for the month of July in the amount of $91,437.26 was approved for payment.

General Voucher #7 of $126,995.94; Social Assistance Payroll #7 of $1,003.25; and Ontario Youth Grant Voucher #2 of $1,494.38, were approved for payment.

Minutes of the Roads Committee meeting of July 29 were adopted as presented.

Messrs. Splonick, Dzikowski and Hrynkiw attended the meeting to discuss the possibility of severing their land consisting of 49.64 acres into four parcels. Reeve Brickman explained that the Official Plan did not allow for more than one severance in the Recreation Residential Zone and therefore a plan of subdivision would be required.

Minutes of the Galway Cavendish Fire Department meeting of July 4 were received.

Council did not object to a minor variance being made on Plan 3, lot 31, Cavendish and authorized Renate Kuslak to bring a minor variance application before the Committee of Adjustment.

The Building Inspector was authorized to review the application of Mr. Judd for a minor variance, inspect the property and report back to council.

Council had no objection to a minor variance being made on Concession 5, part lot 27 Cavendish, and authorized William and Joyce McMurray to bring a minor variance application before the Committee of Adjustment.

A request from the Central Ontario Disaster Relief Committee was received.

A request from the Essex County Flood Disaster Relief Committee was received.

The clerk was authorized to send 17 Cavendish Landfill Site Cards to Burleigh and Anstruther for distribution to their rate payers and an agreement will be drawn up between the two townships, with Burleigh Anstruther paying an annual fee of $250 to Galway Cavendish, which would permit their residents to dispose of their refuse in the Cavendish Landfill Site.

Council had no objection to the Ministry of Natural Resources closing and removing the 66 foot right-of-way from Camp Catchacoma Land, being Concessions 17 and 18, lots 22-24, Cavendish.

Council had no objection to the release of 10% road reservation on Camp Catchacoma Land, being Concessions 7 and 8, Lots 22-24, Cavendish.

Tod Weitzel's resignation from the Cavendish Platoon of the Galway Cavendish Fire Department, was accepted with regret.

In order to resolve the dispute over a parcel of land formerly owned by J.V. Smith, but which was placed under tax registration, council decided to sell the land jointly to Mr. and Mrs. Kuntz and Mr. and Mrs. Evans at a price not to exceed $8,000, subject to a health approval being obtained by the purchasers and the land having a lot frontage of not less than 130 feet. This land is situated on Concession 11, part lot 32 Galway.

Sandford's medals bought

The community will have an opportunity to view a set of medals and honours bestowed on Sir Sandford Fleming, president Charles Pascal announced recently at an executive meeting of Sir Sandford Fleming College's Board of Governors.

Once the arrangements are completed for returning the items to Canada, maximum public exposure of the collection will be sought. Plans are being made for the four purchasers to share in displaying the collection.

The collection, auctioned at Christies, London, England, was purchased for 3400 pounds ($6500 Canadian) by Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, Sir Sandford Fleming College, Peterborough, The Sandford Fleming Foundation, Waterloo and the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario (APEO).

Once the arrangements are completed for returning the items to Canada, maximum public exposure of the collection will be sought. Plans are being made for the four purchasers to share in displaying the collection.

The collection is expected to arrive in Canada later this summer.

'Don't you dare take my picture,' one of these smiling Minden parade participants seems to be saying, but it was too late. The shutter had already been pushed.

The parade attracted hundreds of people to the community, most of whom also enjoyed the midway and other activities last Wednesday night.

Anson, Hindon, Minden briefs...

Anson, Hindon and Minden council met Thursday, August 1 and considered the following matters:

Members of council and staff joined in welcoming Reeve Lyle McKnight back to regular meetings.

Paul Jones, municipal advisor with the Ministry of Municipal Affairs, attended at council's request to review the method by which municipal representation is determined by County council according to statute. Acting Reeve Ed Pergolas expressed concern over the fact that the municipality pays approximately 20% of the school board levy but enjoys only 14.28% of the representation on the board. Paul Jones pointed out that the formula used to determine school board representation is not in any way based on a municipality's share of the budget, but is related to population in that total residential/farm assessment figures are used.

Members of council agreed that the present formula is inadequate and should be more closely related to each municipality's share of the overall budget in order to minimize any undue financial burden.

Law McCriston, president; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Ettel, Cyril East and Percy McBain attended representing the Soyers Lake Cottagers. McCriston filed a written response to the request of M. Sattler to establish docking facilities on Block A, Plan 552. The Association's stand is that it will concur with the request to locate a dock on this property provided that access from the Township road is by footpath only, that no signs be posted denoting Block A as a public launching site, and that no development of the shoreline or lot be undertaken to permit vehicular access.

The Association's main concern centres on the fact that Block A is located at the end of a very shallow, narrow bay, and increased boat traffic in this area would have a detrimental effect on swimming and boating safety and the environment of the bay. Ettel gave a short history of the development of the land surrounding Poverty Bay, including the creation and subsequent clearing of Block A in question. He was most concerned that council might have a problem controlling or limiting the use of Block A in the future if one individual is granted permission now.

The clerk confirmed that in addition to the submission filed by McCriston, 13 other letters from surrounding property owners expressed concern over and opposition to the proposal had been received in the municipal offices.

Council subsequently passed a resolution noting that since it deems that Block A, Plan 552, Township of Minden, is unsuitable for development in the future as a public park or access point; the application submitted by M. Sattler to install docking facilities on Block A, Plan 552, is denied.

By-law 85-32, a by-law to establish a formal job description for the position of Municipal Road Superintendent, was passed.

By-law 85-33, a by-law to authorize the Reeve and Clerk to endorse a Quit Claim Deed to the land marked "Park" on Plan 177, Township of Minden, was passed.

By-law 85-34, a by-law to temporarily close a portion of Main Street in the village of Minden, was passed.

By-law 85-35, a by-law to amend previous By-law No. 83-12, which regulates traffic and parking in the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden, was passed.

By-law 85-36, a by-law to temporarily close Fleming Road east of the Bobcaygeon Road, was passed.

Boundary Information Centre accounts of $2,363.50, to July 18, 1985, were approved for payment.

The sum of $13,899.50 was transferred from the Fire Department Fund to the Revenue Fund to cover the cost of the purchase of a tanker cab and chassis.

The following accounts were approved for payment: General, $57,898.84; Water, $1,513.81; Please turn to Page 3

Hillclimb troubles still unresolved

be held at all.

Following last year's event, neither Williams nor Thomas could agree on what share of the gate Thomas should receive if Williams was to continue as the promoter and organizer. As a result Williams asked the top rated American hillclimbers to vote in favour of boycotting this year's event.

Williams said that without the Americans, the hillclimbing event would be nothing more than an amateur event involving local riders on ordinary moto-cross bikes.

Bill Thomas

However the Canadian Motorcycle Association is sanctioning this year's hillclimbing event as a professional national championship regardless of whether Williams and the professional American riders attend.

To salvage the event and keep the property that Thomas stands to lose to the bank should the event be a failure, Thomas began negotiations with president of the American Hillclimbers Association, Conely Newsom, from Columbus, Ohio, last month to try and persuade his professional riders to attend.

Newsom told the Echo in an earlier interview that if $6,000 or 25 percent of the money collected at gate could be guarantee for the prize winning purse, the professional riders would attend regardless of their vote to boycott the event.

Thomas has since managed to raise the $6,000 prize money for the event, hoping that the money will attract the American riders despite their loyalty to Williams.

However, Gorman said, "They (the Americans) are certainly willing to come, but their buddy (Williams) carries such an influential clout" as vice-president of the American Hillclimbers Association, it is difficult to say whether they will come or not.

Gorman said the purpose of the law suit is "to preserve Thomas' rights and keep Williams quiet" until the event has been run.

But Thomas said he is pleading with Williams to "bury the hatchet" and attend this year's hillclimb.

"I don't know what it's going to take to get Williams to participate. We've offered everything we could think of" short of letting Williams control the gate again this year as he has done in the previous three years.

"We offered him cash or a percentage of the gate, if he could forget last year's dispute and compete as a professional sportsman."

But Williams "is a man with a lot of pride and he has a temper the same as I have a temper," Thomas said and suggested, "we can negotiate through Gorman and meet each other's thinking without chewing."

Gorman said, "He (Williams) will have to swallow an awful lot of pride (to accept Thomas' offers), but if he doesn't he'll lose a lot of face," if the hill climb is successful this year.

Gorman says in a letter, "without prejudice", giving notice of the possible lawsuit, said: "I personally hope that the hill climb is a financial success this year because if it is, I am sure the Thomas's will not proceed with their action."

Gorman counselled Thomas to serve Williams the law suit if the event should fail financially because of his (Williams') statements to the media.

Law suits involving defamatory statements or misrepresentations have to be served within six months of the alleged defamatory statements being made.

Due to racing engagements neither the professional American hillclimbers nor John Williams have been available for comment since notice of the law suit was served on July 25.

On an optimistic note however, Thomas is still confident that this year's hillclimb will be a success, and as long as Williams doesn't "destroy the hillclimb, we would still like him to come. It's a hollow victory if he's not here for whoever wins because the Canadian Championship is going to be won on that date (August 17) and he should be here to fight against it."

"If he can only bury the hatchet for that day and if he wants to carry on fighting (with Thomas) that's up to him," Thomas added.

Nevertheless Thomas said if Williams doesn't attend, there will still be enough professional hillclimbers this year (about 14) from Alberta, Quebec and across Ontario to make this year's hillclimb as exciting as it has been for the last three years.

New principal hired

Hemphill says he accepted the position because he prefers living in a smaller community and looks forward to participating in Haliburton area activities.

Hemphill, a bachelor, is presently looking around the property market to buy a house and is also awaiting delivery of his Seawind amphibious airplane kit so he can take advantage of the private pilot's licence that he holds.

Hemphill will also be looking for a challenge on the squash courts in Haliburton where he is the 1985 reigning men's champion.

Authority fills seats

Four area residents have been appointed to the Victoria-Haliburton Housing Authority.

Richard H. Carter, owner of Blenett Printing of Lindsay; William J. O'Neill, owner of Wm. O'Neill Construction and Equipment Ltd. of Bobcaygeon and Lori-Anne Raymond, a homemaker in Fenelon Falls, will serve as federal representative on the housing authority.

Brenda Moynes, a Lindsay dairy farmer will serve as a provincial representative on the eight-member authority.

Carnival set for tonight

The streets of Haliburton will take on a festive air this Wednesday night as the Haliburton Rotary Club stages its annual summer carnival.

To get things off to an early start, the club has planned a Horseshoe tournament which gets underway at 2 p.m. in Head Lake park.

An hour later the midway rides, games and concessions will open at the community centre ball field. Activities here will continue throughout the evening.

Fitness enthusiasts can test their conditioning over a 10 kilometre distance in the annual Labatt sponsored Fun and Fitness run. Entry fee for the event is just $2, and participants can register at the information caboose on race day.

Runners will line up for the start in front of the government dock at 4:30 p.m. The course also finishes at the dock after taking runners along South Kashagawigamog Lake road to the Haliburton Highlands Golf Club, and returning via the same route.

From 5:30 to 8 p.m. club members will be on hand at the ball diamond to barbecue beef and serve it on a bun.

The night's main event is a parade which will make its way along main street beginning at 7:30 p.m. Theme this year is "youth".

At 8 p.m. a bingo will begin in the Legion Hall, and from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., carnival participants can dance at the curling club to the music of 'Ike'.

At 10:30 p.m. one lucky person will become the proud owner of a brand new Camaro, when their name is chosen from among 3000 tickets that have been on sale during the past few months.

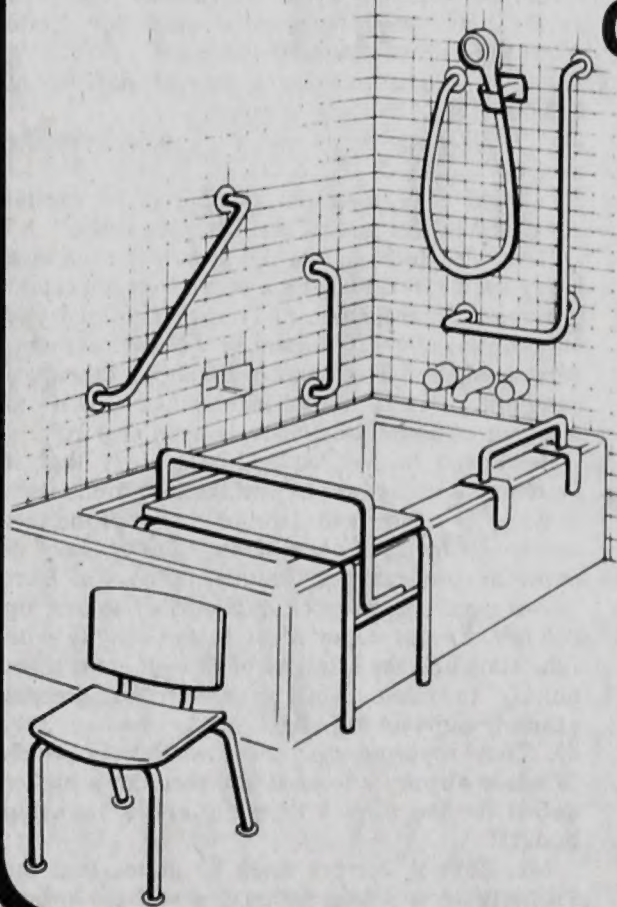

These happy people came dressed in night clothes to the Midnight Madness Sale in Haliburton on Friday night and were in the village square at 11 p.m. to take part in the costume contest. The judges had a hard time picking winners, and felt everybody who took part deserved a prize.

Compromise

The dispute which in recent weeks has threatened the future of the Canadian National motorcycle hill climb championships in the Wilberforce area is an unfortunate one, not only for the people involved but for the community as a whole. Many people have gone to a great deal of trouble to make the event a success, and their efforts should not be wasted as a result of a disagreement over the distribution of gate receipts.

The hill climb may not be everyone's idea of a summer afternoon's entertainment, and the thoughts of thousands of motorcycle enthusiasts rolling through the Highlands is enough to give most of us pause. But the record of past hillclimbs speaks for itself: the crowds have been well behaved, and there have been no significant problems as a result of the event.

The impact of the hill climb on the local economy is impossible to measure, but is reasonable to assume that most of those 5000 spectators spend money for food, accommodation and other goods and services while they are in the area. This money could be lost to local business people if the hill climb fails to attract the American competitors who draw large crowds.

Since the controversy surrounding this year's event is essentially a personal one between racer/promoter John Williams and hill owner Bill Thomas, it is difficult to determine who is right and who is wrong. But it is certain that unless a compromise can be reached, the economic benefit of the hill climb to the community at large could be diminished or even lost.

The 'spirit'

There's an undeniable spirit in the Haliburton Highlands on the August Civic Holiday weekend, and it manifests itself in a number of regattas and other events on area lakes. These gatherings give people a chance to enjoy some friendly competition and good neighbourliness in a spirit of fun.

Unfortunately, at some of the events (Drag Lake's Fun Day being the most praiseworthy exception), the kind of 'spirit' that comes in aluminum cans and brown bottles also was very much in evidence. It's too bad that so many people are unable to have a good time without drinking, especially since most of them make their way back to the cottage by car or boat.

Canadians have a lot to learn about acting responsibly, and the lessons don't seem to be sinking in.

Nothing learned

To a whole generation the searing horror of that August day in 1945 when at atomic bomb unleashed its awesome power over Hiroshima is no more real than the images in a science fiction fantasy. Photographs preserve the destruction, but they are pale shadows of its reality. In the 40 years since the bomb was dropped mankind has learned nothing from Hiroshima. In the United States, the Soviet Union and Europe, missiles stand ready to destroy much of the earth in the same way that tiny bomb dropped over Hiroshima tore the city and its people apart.

It would be easy to acquiesce in the face of this nuclear madness, to abandon all hope for the future. Yet to do so would be to forget the lesson Hiroshima can teach - that no one can win a nuclear war, and that mankind's very existence depends on learning to tolerate, not hate.

Nothing 'questionable' about opposing airport

To the Editor

To The Editor:

I would like to reply to the letter of Derek Rolfe published in the issue of Wednesday, July 31.

Hopefully, I am not one of those Mr. Rolfe refers to in his letter as, and I quote: "few persons with questionable motives who are opposed to the improvements planned."

There is nothing 'questionable' about my motive. I am simply opposed to the increases in my taxes, Federal, Provincial, and Municipal, which the spending of nearly a million dollars will cause.

I have read the "Stanhope Municipal Airport Master Plan" prepared by Marshall, Macklin, Monaghan, Ltd. and that plan DOES include for future development a 4000 ft. runway, but even on the initial improvements to which Mr. Rolfe refers the report states, and I quote:

1. "One might anticipate annual deficits of $12,000 - $15,000."
2. "Small airports do not as a rule generate profits."
3. "Income is marginal compared to capital construction and annual maintenance costs."

If, as Mr. Rolfe states, the airport is even now being used extensively by a number of important concerns - Hydro, Dept. of Transport, Ministry of Natural Resources, Ministry of the Environment, why should the Township of Stanhope take on a continuing, and likely increasing deficit to improve an already extensively used airport?

In regard to Mr. Rolfe's statement that if Stanhope does not get the designated funds then some other airport will, I am reminded of the fact that senior levels of government have a history of imposing programs on municipalities and later 'bowing out', leaving the municipality to pick up the tab. Recent experiences in the County with Education and the Ministry of Environment come quickly to mind. And an even more recent example came on Hte CKOC news, Monday, July 29. They reported that the township in which Windsor Airport is located had recorder a higher deficit for the airport than the entire township budget!

Mr. Rolfe is correct when he states that the Property Owners Association closest to the airport have been kept informed, but not all the taxpayers in Stanhope are members of that association.

Sincerely,
Arthur D. Wall

Re: Editorial of July 31, 1985 entitled 'What's Worse'

This letter is being delivered to your office on August 2 so that through you the Red Cross may extend an invitation to the 'expert board sailer' of your editorial to attend on Tuesday, August 6 at West Guilford at 10:00 a.m. a session with the Red Cross Small Craft Water Safety team from Peterborough.

It was very disturbing to note that nowhere in your editorial was there an indication that the use of a life preserver is just plain common sense and the basis of small craft water safety. For many years the Red Cross has taught swimming and water safety on Head Lake and what a poor example for an individual who considers himself an expert to endanger himself and set such a poor example for the children using the beaches and water. Yes, his actions did put the lives of others at risk.

What's worse indeed!

Please inform the board sailer of the presence of the Red Cross Small Craft Water Safety team on August 6 and I trust that he may attend and learn so as to be able to enjoy many years of the brisk winds and exhilaration of streaking across the waves.

I am most disappointed that after all the years of the Red Cross work in this area that your editorial completely ignores the positive aspects of water safety.

Sincerely,
Barbara Dawson

The end of my first year's subscription to "The Echo" is drawing to a close. I would therefore like to take this opportunity to commend the contributing staff, and everyone involved in providing me with my "weekly surprise" in the mail.

My parents have owned a cottage on Haliburton Lake for 18 of my 23 years now, and I still marvel in the tranquility and unmarred beauty of the landscape. I am a writer and marketing consultant, and it is still beyond my comprehension that so few of the cottagers are not subscribers to a publication that far exceeds the quality of at least one of Toronto's prominent newspapers. In my 18 years of being a summertime resident of Victoria County, I have come to realize that a few

Well here I am back at the office after being away for about two and a half weeks following a hernia operation at the Civic Hospital in Peterborough. I seem to be feeling a lot better but I realize that I have to take it easy for another couple of weeks, when I hope to be back going stronger than ever. Being away from the office has given me the opportunity to relax a bit and to have a good rest. There are certain things that you miss when you are away such as not being in contact with the business people I call on every week, and also I missed meeting the people who come into our office and all of the excitement that goes into the last minute rush on Monday and Tuesday when we wrap up the week's business and start to put the paper together. While I was home I had the opportunity to catch up on some reading, do some of my own personal book work and of course watch a little more television than usual. I find that one can only take so much television before they become weary and would like to go on to something else. I find that the soap operas are as depressing as ever, the 11 o'clock news is still full of gloom and doom and you can only watch so many game shows in a day without crawling up the wall. If you have been listening to the radio, watching TV or reading the daily newspapers in the last two weeks you will find that most of the news is really sad. One has to wonder just what kind of world we are living in when you see young children starving and another young girl missing from her home in Etobicoke.

The one piece of good news that has all Canadians talking these days is the outstanding play of those amazing Toronto Blue Jays of the American baseball league. Here they are nine and a half games out in front of their closest rivals, the New York Yankees, and at the present time they are sporting the best record in baseball today. All Blue Jay fans are really excited over this year's team, which is breaking all attendance records. They look like a sure bet to be in the World Series. All of the effort put forth by the players and management to put the team in this position could be all wiped out as the baseball players are on strike. No one knows how long this strike will go on or what will happen if they do resume play in a month's time. Unless some action is taken in the very near future the baseball season could be all over for 1985.

The 1985 Canadian National Slalom White Water Championship is all set for this coming weekend, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 9, 10 and 11. All of the action will take place at the Minden Wild Water Preserve, which is a project of the Ontario Wild Water Affiliation.

The Monmouth Agricultural Fair is also scheduled for this coming weekend, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, at Wilberforce.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Anderson Jr. of Tory Hill, Ontario have returned home following a five week vacation visiting with friends and relatives in England. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Doug (Gerry) Armstrong.

According to a recent article in the Toronto Star, a St. Catharines man, known for his years of work with Scouts and disadvantaged boys, died at a children's camp near Haliburton. Bud Jacobi, 62, collapsed at Camp Allsaw on Soyers Lake as he and camp counsellors looked for a site to hold a camp fire. He was pronounced dead at the Haliburton Hospital.

Scotty Morrison, referee in chief of the National Hockey League, who spends his summers with his wife and family at their cottage on KENNISIS Lake, is seen taking part in many local events.

The congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses of Haliburton chartered a Travelways bus while many went by car and others took trailers to the Integrity Keepers' district convention of Jehovah's Witnesses held recently at Olympic Stadium in Montreal. The city of Montreal gave the local group permission to use the Mount Royal golf course, adjoining the Olympic Stadium for the trailer camp. About 18,000 people stayed there. According to William Borden, spokesman for the Witnesses in the Haliburton area, 78,804 people were present at the final session to hear Daniel Sydlak speak on the subject "God's Times and Seasons - To What Do They Point?" Sydlak said that a nuclear holocaust should not be the nation's main concern. The 'Doomsday Clock' denotes how close we are to nuclear war and potential annihilation. He asserted we should be more concerned about God's clock and assessing the times and seasons from this point of view.

At the recent Customer Appreciation Week held at Curry Motors Limited Delane Sawyer of R.R. 1, Haliburton was the lucky winner of a 20" colour TV in a draw held at that time.

The small water fountain which is now in operation at Head Lake Park is drawing many favourable comments from local citizens and visitors alike.

Shirley Hodgson from Haliburton Lake breaks me up with laughter from time to time with her very humorous poems. Here's another one:

To my dentures I'm resigned
I've got used to my bi-focals
But by golly I miss my mind.

Report From Parliament

by Bill Scott, M.P.

Credit corporation looks for input

Long before we became the government we recognized the need for a full investigation of Farm Credit Corporation programs and interest rates. In fulfillment of that campaign promise, on July 10 the Hon. John Wise, Minister of Agriculture announced plans for an in-depth review of the role and mandate of the FCC.

Mr. Wise explained "FCC staff are initiating a consultative approach to the study and will be talking to farm leaders, provincial governments, other lenders, farm management specialists, university experts in the field, and most importantly, directly to farmers about their needs in the area of farm credit."

The Minister is looking for input to help FCC deal with today's problems and tomorrow's challenges. The summer will be used for information gathering and a report will be submitted to the Minister by the end of September. Anyone wishing to submit their ideas on the subject of the federal government's role in the field of farm credit can do so by contacting any FCC office or by sending their comments to: Corporate Planning, Farm Credit Corporation, P.O. Box 2314, Station "D", Ottawa, Ontario, K1P 6J9.

In another statement on July 15, the Hon. Pat Carney, Minister of Energy, Mines and Resources announced a change to the Canadian Home Insulation Program. Effective July 15, 1985, all new CHIP applicants must register, in advance, their intent to apply for a grant. If you wish to get an application form or you would like more information on the program you should contact the CHIP Regional Office at 416-789-0581 (are code 705 can call collect) or write to them at P.O. Box 1270, Station T, Toronto, Ontario M6B 4A4.

On July 16, 1985 the Hon. Perrin Beatty, Minister of National Revenue announced that an agreement for the sale of liquor in land border duty free shops has been reached with the government of Ontario.

The federal government holds licensing authority for duty free shops but the sale of liquor is controlled by the province. The agreement provides for the sale of duty and tax free liquor at land border duty free shops by private sector operators. It also details the roles and responsibilities of the respective governments in the operator selection process so that mutually acceptable operators can be appointed. Similar arrangements are in place with five other provinces sharing a border with the United States.

The announcement of the new locations for the shops will be made in the very near future. Application packages and additional information will be available from the Ontario Regional Office of Revenue Canada, Customs at 55 Bloor St. W., P.O. Box 10, Toronto, Ontario, M5W 1A3. A public notice inviting applications for the establishment of these shops will appear in Canadian newspapers.

Nine duty free shops are now in operation in the provinces of New Brunswick, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and British Columbia. Three other locations in B.C. and N.B. are expected to be in operation by September 1985. Once fully implemented, the national duty free shop program will see approximately 48 shops in operation across Canada.

Our thanks this week to J. Douglas Hodgson of Haliburton for giving us permission to use this photo showing St. George's Church, Haliburton burning in March 1920. J.C. MacKenzie was the new Anglican minister at that time who started to preach in the new frame church which was designed by John Belcher, a Peterborough architect. According to Nila Reynolds' book 'In Quest of Yesterday', the white structure with its bell tower entrance which overlooked Head Lake, contained an organ donated by the widow of humorist Thomas Chandler Haliburton, who chose to perpetuate her husband's memory in a musical way. Its lovely tones led the weekly worship for half a century until Sunday morning, in March 1920, when the beloved building burned to the ground. The present Anglican church of brick, similar in design, was constructed by Mr. E. Fetterley. It was opened by Bishop of Sweeney of Toronto on the morning of October 24, 1923, in the presence of a large congregation which included the popular Rural Dean of Haliburton, the Rev. J.H. Stringer.

select residents resent, and exploit our weekly impedences on the land. However I believe that not only "The Echo", but the entire community could, and will benefit by allowing we die hard veterans, who even go north instead of south in the winter, to feel a greater sense of awareness and concern about what is happening at our second homes. This is certainly not to say that we should destroy the wilderness to attract tourist dollars, rather to allow existing property owners to realize the warmth, and security, undingly provided by the full time residents. A feeling of trust I have found only exists in Haliburton and Newfoundland.

Perhaps, a one time drop of "The Echo" to every land owner in the region (with a simultaneous money drive) would help to increase our mutual respect and reverence of the land, and create a much needed influx of income to a sadly depressed region. (I know mailing lists are expensive - but they do bring results.)

In closing, keep it coming. I will send a change of address card, and renewal cheque, in late July. Further, I await my next issue with eager anticipation.

Sincerely,
Donald G.S. Young

To The Editor:

Since the time of my last letter, two issues that I at least consider to be of importance in the county, have caused me to write. These are the issue of the "super boats" that traverse the waterways of both my, and innumerable other lakes in Ontario, well into the wee hours of the morning. I am an avid boater myself, and have enjoyed hours of pleasure from my watercraft, and envy the operators of high performance boats until it comes to travelling at speeds at excess of 70 miles an hour, at night, in the dark. They are of course equipped with running lights. This is of little compensation however, to unsuspecting canoes or small boats that are sitting ducks for a quite possibly impaired maniac who seems to be looking for an accident. This is a serious problem in my view and is virtually impossible to control. It is my only hope that some of these boat owners read this, and take heed; to run at absurd speeds in the night is indeed to run on borrowed time.

The other issue that I was rudely greeted with last weekend is the blatant misuse of firearms. This incident occurred frighteningly close to myself, and once again I believe that the culprit was impaired. To have and use firearms is a matter of personal choice, and it is not my place to comment. However, with an individual who is merely a tourist in the region commences taking pot shots in the dark, as well as at a loon on the following evening, it causes my blood to boil, and serves to exemplify in its greatest detail, man's senseless destruction of the nature that he is privileged enough to enjoy. Further, this occurred at the very peak of vacation season when the shorelines bustle with happy tourists. I have a Black Labrador, and become afraid to let her out at night, envisioning some drunken fool, claiming that they thought it was a bear, killing my dog.

I believe that we should all enjoy rather than destroy, and that some tourists should exercise more caution while in the Highlands, before a serious accident occurs.

Sincerely,
Donald G.S. Young

How is poverty defined these days?

Question

Catherine Denholm

It used to be that poverty was connected entirely with lack of money. People lived in poverty when there was not enough to eat and not enough money to heat the house, not enough warm clothing and so on. This, of course, is still true but we have managed, I think, to see that people have food and warm places to live even in the downtown core of the cities and isolated rural areas. There will be exceptions but, if known about, few suffer such physical poverty.

Mother Teresa gives us a different definition of poverty. "Loneliness and the feeling of being unwanted is the most terrible kind of poverty."

Locating the people who suffer from this kind of poverty is harder than finding those who are hungry and cold. Relieving this kind of poverty is a more difficult task. I imagine there are more people suffering from this kind of poverty in cities where thousands live in one apartment block with each person in their own place. You do not speak to the person next door since involvement with a stranger, who is so close, might mean loss of what

More than 400 runners burst from the start on Friday to compete in the Heineken Yard road race (above). Below, Brendan Matthias, left, who finished third, congratulates second place finisher Mark Holman.

Etobicoke racer wins 'Yard'

By HAMISH GORDON
Staff Reporter

More than 400 amateur long distance runners gathered at the gates of Camp Onondaga near Minden last Friday afternoon to compete in the 14th annual 4.6 mile Heineken Yard road race.

The crack of a shot gun released the seething energy of the runners who swarmed like a battalion of soldier ants down the dusty dirt road in the sweltering heat.

By the time they had reached the paved Deep Bay Road, heading in the direction of Minden's Main Street finish line four miles away, the lean figure of Roger Cawkwell, 25, of Etobicoke Huskies had shot ahead of the pack by 75 yards. It was evident very early in the race that no one would catch him unless he slackened his gruelling pace.

After the first mile Cawkwell had clocked 4 minutes and 50 seconds. Two miles later he settled in a steady pace of 11 mph, according to the driver of the Amstel Brewery special events van that kept pace just ahead of the runners.

Three hundred yards behind Cawkwell it was as if a completely different race was being fought as the 400 hustled and jostled for a comfortable space of pavement to run on. They stretched out along the undulating road for more than two miles.

But far ahead, as Cawkwell turned on to Minden's Main Street and effortlessly accelerated to cross the finish line in 22:09, an enthusiastic crowd spilling over sidewalks on both sides of the street roared their appreciation from the bridge all the way to the Rockcliffe Hotel patio.

Considering the searing heat during the late afternoon race, he had set remarkable time, only 11 seconds shy of Greg Lockhart's record time set in 1983 at 21:58.

While Cawkwell commanded the pace earlier in the run, Mark Holman, 26, also of the Etobicoke Huskies and 15-year-old Brendan Matthias of Thornhill battled for second place 300 yards behind.

"It was a battle for three and three quarter miles with him (Holman) because I developed cramps (in the abdomen) at the two mile mark and I had a hard time breathing," Matthias said.

Holman took hold of the second place position by accelerating down the Main Street to the finish line, beating Matthias by only four seconds. Holman was second in the Men's open category with a time of 23:24. Matthias was an overall third among the top ten men but was first in the Junior Men's category with a time of 23:28. Walter Falcon took third place in the open men's category with a time of 23:47.

The first woman across the finish line was Lynne Bermel, 24, of the York University track team with a time of 26:39.

Gail Grant of Mississauga was second with a time of 27:22 and Glenda Morris from Lindsay came third in the open women's category with a time of 28:53.

Robert Moore from the Toronto Olympic Club placed sixth overall but came first in the Master Men category with a time of 24:18. Jack Cook, who placed fifth overall with a time of 24:02, came second in the Junior Men's category.

It was a surprise to some that John Castellano of the Etobicoke Huskies who placed seventh overall, did not get into the top three this year as he has done in previous years.

But it was a real victory for Cawkwell who has placed second for two years running in the Heineken Yard four miler. It was also an admirable victory for Jennifer Wood of Bracebridge who is 54. She came first in the Master Women's category with a time of 34:15.

Anne McMullen and Suzanne Quarter, both from Markham, stormed across the finish line chasing each other. But McMullen took second place in the Master Women's two seconds ahead of Quarter who crossed the line at 34:41 minutes.

Charles Norwell took second place in the Roger Cawkwell, 25, was the overall winner of the Heineken Yard road race in Minden on Friday. Cawkwell led from the start and finished in a time of 22:09.

Minister opens game reserve to hunters

A controlled white-tailed deer hunt will be conducted in the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve from November 4 - 16, Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio said.

"The large deer population in the area has resulted in extensive overbrowsing of the winter habitat," Kerrio said. "If we had a severe winter, many of the deer would likely die of starvation." In addition, the growing numbers of deer in the area has resulted in a sharp increase in deer/vehicle collisions -- from 16 in 1980 to 44 last year.

The hunt will be held strictly within the preserve boundaries in Burleigh and Methuen Townships, north of Peterborough, and only 250 hunters will be allowed in the area in each of the two weeks. Hunters will be given a detailed information package including a map of the area.

Only shotguns will be allowed and no dogs are permitted in the area. All hunters will be required to submit a report of their hunt to the Ministry's Bancroft office.

A buffer zone surrounding Jack Lake has been created and the boundary will be clearly posted to ensure that there will be no conflict between hunters and residents along Jack Lake.

Applications for participating in the hunt may be obtained by contacting: Bancroft District Office, Ministry of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 500, Hwy. 28, Bancroft, Ontario, K0L 1C0 (613) 332-3940 or Lindsay District Office, Ministry of Natural Resources, 322 Kent Street West, Lindsay, Ontario, K9V 4T7 (705) 324-6121. The deadline for application is August 31, 1985.

Juniors strong in final with Minden Srs.

Last Monday night the final play down in the Ladies Softball League got underway in Haliburton. Last year's two finalists, the Haliburton Jrs. and the Minden Srs., have ended up meeting again. The Haliburton Jrs. won the series in 1984 three games to two. This year the Haliburton Jrs. got off to a strong start in the first inning, scoring four runs while the Minden team only managed to score one run in the third inning. The final score was 8 to 1. The whole Haliburton squad played a strong defensive game with good batting from Tara Davies and Miriam Smith. Marg Smith pitched for the Jrs. while Nelda Cully was on the mound for Minden.

The Minden Srs. knew they had their work cut out for them as they were up against a team who had lost only one game by one run during the season. But on Tuesday night in Minden the home team came up with a determined all out effort and defeated the Jrs. 11 to 8. At the bottom of the fifth inning the score was tied at 8. In the sixth inning Minden added three runs and shut out Haliburton during their next two at bats. Strong performances from pitcher Nelda Cully and shortstop Sue Pye, who came up with a beautiful double play and a three for four night at the plate, helped the winning cause. Rhonda Wilson produced several runs on two triples and a double base hit. Michelle Harrison and Melissa Creelman had a strong night at the plate for Haliburton.

Nick Lehoczy of Ski and Sail in Haliburton uses a dry land trainer to teach the fundamentals of windsurfing to Earl Sovereign, who took up the sport recently and is enjoying its rewards. Sovereign, who is an avid gardener, admits that his new passion may play havoc with his horticultural endeavours. He'd rather be sailing than weeding these days.

Windsurfing 'bug' bites

Earl Sovereign enjoys sport, with grandchildren

By HAMISH GORDON
Staff Reporter

Seventy-six year old retired farmer Earl Sovereign is living proof that you can indeed teach an old dog new tricks.

Windsurfing instructor Nick Lehoczy proved it two weeks ago at Sovereign's Haliburton Lake cottage where until recently Sovereign used to spend most of his time finding new ways to entertain grandchildren. The rest of his time was spent tending his vegetable garden which is terraced in 45 gallon drums.

During their weekly bridge club meetings, Sovereign never took Lehoczy's two years of good natured badgering about how easily he could learn to windsurf, seriously. But then Sovereign read about the sport in the July issue of 'Halcyon' magazine while his grandchildren lolled about the beach looking bored. It was a convincing second opinion and Lehoczy's persuasive enthusiasm for the sport opened up a new world for the Sovereign family.

Windsurfing, Sovereign speculated, would be an ideal activity to keep those four grandchildren interested for the rest of the summer.

He finally gave Lehoczy a call at his windsurfing shop in Haliburton village behind the Red and White store on the main street. Lehoczy was delighted but also saw it as an opportunity to get his bridge crony on the board and show him how easily the sport could be mastered.

From the description of the sport in the 'Halcyon' article which emphasized freedom, safety and speed, Sovereign, who was on the brink of death 11 years ago after suffering a massive heart attack, didn't need much more encouragement.

These days Sovereign, who has a passion for vegetable gardening (a hang-over from his market gardening days in Burlington, Ontario), is more apt to be found wielding the boom of a windsurfer than wielding his garden spade.

Lehoczy arranged for the Echo to meet Sovereign at the cottage where he has traditionally spent six months of the year tending his unique vegetable garden. The other six months are spent

Men play out season, finals to begin

Playoffs are set to begin in the Haliburton men's softball league as the teams get in their final regular season games with no chance of changing their standings.

Last Tuesday, Curry Motors outpointed the Kinsmen 6-2, while Beachli Construction brought 10 runs across to better Haliburton Lumber by three.

In the Thursday night games, the Kinsmen edged out Beachli 7-6 and Haliburton Lumber bested Curry Motors 3-2.

Curry Motors cemented their victory over the Kinsmen with their first at bat. In the bottom of the first they scored four runs, with two RBI's to Dave McColl and singles to Bernie Upton and Philip Smith.

The Kinsmen answered with two runs in the top of the second, but it was as close as they could come for the rest of the game.

In the bottom of the third, Wade Stamp belted a home run for the motormen and Bernie Upton also scored after a single to make the score 6-2, and that's the way it stood at the end of six and a half innings.

Beachli Construction got off to a fast start in the second game last Tuesday, bringing five runs across before Haliburton Lumber could get the third out.

Monday night in Haliburton. Again, Minden Dixie Lee surprised the spectators by coming up with a strong team effort and defeated the Jrs. 7 to 5. Minden got off to a good start scoring three runs in their first at bat but Haliburton battled back and led the game 5 to 4 at the bottom of the fourth inning and the score stayed at that for two more innings. In the top of the seventh inning Jane Symons scored the tying run and Corry Zlorjen scored the winning run on a bone jarring slide in from third. Barb Winn added an insurance run. Left fielder Lori Brown made some great catches and went three for four at the plate. Tara Davies and Marla McNaul both had a good night at bat for the Jrs. Marg Smith pitched for Haliburton and Nelda Cully was on the mound for Minden. Play continues Tuesday night in Minden. Congratulations to both teams for making this an interesting, well played series.

In the other series played between Wilberforce and Gooderham, Gooderham leads two games to one. Gooderham won last Monday night by a score of 13 to 7.

Karen Franke was on the mound for the winners. Unfortunately on Wednesday night Gooderham was unable to field a team so had to default the game to Wilberforce. Two games will be played in this series this week.

Martins are under study

Do you have a purple martin house in your backyard? If so, you could help the Brazilian Association for the Preservation of Wildlife study the movements of purple martins between North America and Brazil in order to learn more about migration patterns and to promote their conservation in Brazil.

Purple martins spend the summer in North America and winter as far south as southern Brazil. They are a common summer species in Ontario and are noted for consuming large quantities of mosquitoes and other flying insects.

A total of 300,000 purple martins were marked with fluorescent microtags of five different colours last March in southern Brazil. The microtags consist of a fine, non-toxic powder which was sprayed over the birds and adhered to the feathers. The markers are not permanent as they are lost when the feathers moult during the first year after application.

The Canadian Wildlife Service has offered to assist in the project and has, by way of a newsletter, requested the assistance of people who have purple martin houses. Feathers shed by the birds, particularly the long wing feathers, should be collected and mailed to Ottawa where they will be examined under ultra-violet light to detect the marker. Feathers with the fluorescent microtags will then be forwarded to Brazil.

Any feathers that are collected should be sent to the following address along with your name, address, and the name of the nearest town or city where the feathers were collected. Purple Martin Project, Canadian Wildlife Service, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A 0E7.

You will be notified if any of the feathers you submit contain the microtag. This is an excellent opportunity for interested people to take part in a worthwhile wildlife management project.

Lakes are likely to fall sharply

On July 29 the Haliburton County lakes averaged 78% of their full levels or about 2½% higher than the 10-year average for that date. Only a small draw of water to maintain minimum flows in the tributary rivers such as the Gull and Burnt had been required for most of two weeks, since the heavy rain (about 65mm in Kawarthas) on July 15.

The Kawartha Lakes receiving this inflow were into a decline on the 29th and, despite their outflow being restricted to the minimum, the lack of rain meant increased supply from the headwaters was needed. Accordingly on Tuesday, July 30 the flow was generally increased from the reserve lakes.

The forecasted rain for Wednesday, July 31 was too little to alter the situation so these higher flows are continuing for the Civic holiday weekend. Dry weather is predicted which would make three weeks of quite dry weather since the heavy rain of July 15. Considerable level decline is expected under these conditions.

Gooderham wins tug-of-war competition

Horseshoe Days a popular event

Horseshoe Days returned to Gooderham over the weekend, and with ideal weather conditions and a large crowd on hand, the events were a success.

A canoe race on Saturday morning attracted a total of 12 entrants. Top paddlers were Alfred Trotter and Joe Billings who garnered first place honours; and Brian Noseworthy and Ted Pilcher, who finished in second place.

Later in the day official opening ceremonies were held at the community centre, presided over by deputy reeve Jane Franklin and County warden Dalton MacDonald.

A highlight of the afternoon's activities was a talent contest in the community centre auditorium. The 14 and under category was won by Trent and Troy Kennedy who sang and played guitars. There was a tie for second place with Eddie Madill and Tim Granger each sharing the honours.

Ron Clark of Toronto played his harmonica well enough to earn first place in the over 14 category. Second place went to Robbyn Billings for her singing.

The horseshoe tournament from which the weekend takes its name was once again popular, attracting a total of 43 entrants, who were pared down to 20 competitors through eliminations.

First place was eventually captured by Roy James and Mike Stevenson. Second went to Frank Shewring and Don Troop. Finishing third was the team of Mark Vester and Phil Armstrong. In fourth place were Bruce Armstrong and John Phillips.

The singles event was held on Sunday, with John Morrison pitching his way to first place. Second place was earned by Bob Hunter, with Don Troop third and Bruce Armstrong fourth.

Two other events rounded out Sunday's schedule - a demolition derby with $500 up for grabs to the driver who kept his car moving longest, and a tug of war contest.

A total of 24 cars lined up for the various elimination heats in the derby, but before the carnage began, Wade Adams of Wilberforce took the award for the best-painted car.

Winner of the first heat was Dave Burgess of Minden. The second heat was won by Slavko Bajec of Thornhill. Third heat winner was John Wilkinson.

The feature event for the big money was an exciting one, with Bajec and Burgess battling it out for top honours. Judges had a close call in the final moments as first Bajec, then Burgess, the Bajec appeared to be the last car moving. When the engines gave their last sputter and the last dirt flew, it was Slavko Bajec who garnered the $500 prize, a decision which Burgess accepted with good sportsmanship.

A powder puff event was also held, and it was won by Wendy Myttenar.

In the breaks between heats, attentions shifted to the west end of the field where a tug-of-war provided some exciting action. The boys from Gooderham were the eventual winners of the event, while the Gooderham girls also defeated the competition for first place honours.

A baseball tournament also was part of the festivities, and once again it was Gooderham who fielded the strongest team, defeating Snowdon and Kinmount for first place. In the consolation round, it was Snowdon defeating Irondale.

The Junior Woman winner was Angie DiSalvo from Versailles High School in Ohio, after 30:24 minutes on the road. And Dianne Wiseman of Scarborough was second with a time of 31:08. Corrie Harvey of Toronto was third with a time of 31:42.

Many of the runners this year were privately sponsored for the first time in the event's history to raise money for children to go to camps such as Onondaga Camp for girls and boys.

Trophies were presented on the Rockcliffe Hotel patio to first, second and third place winners of each category.

little privacy there is.

The Home Support volunteers in Haliburton County have been locating folks who live in this kind of poverty. For several years they have been bringing the lonesome people back into society and seeing that those who are confined to their homes have visits.

Are there people who live in this kind of poverty within families? Are there people with lots of money who live in poverty?

There is still a feeling of disbelief by those of use in my age group when we read that an income of less than $19,000 means that a family of four are living below the poverty line. It is all harder to understand now but in its varying degrees poverty may be just as prevalent.

Lynne Bermel, age 24, was the first woman across the finish line of the 4.5 mile Heineken Yard road race in Minden Friday. She covered the distance in a time of 26:39.

lumbermen replied with three runs. They added another in the bottom of the second, and moved ahead with two more runs in the bottom of the third.

Beachli Construction regained the lead in the top of the fourth with three runs, two of them on an RBI triple by Kelly Mitchell.

Bernie Nicholls notched a home run in the bottom of the fourth to put the lumbermen within one run, but they couldn't bring any more across. The builders stretched their total to 10 runs in the top of the sixth, capping a 10-7 victory.

'If I hadn't started the garden before windsurfing, I wouldn't have a garden'

To get down to his natural sand beach one must pick their way down a maze of paths in and around the halved 45 gallon drums. Each half-drum contains tomatoes, string beans, zucchini, potatoes, carrots, kohlrabi or onions. They have all been precisely arranged to utilize every available square foot of space on his sloping land.

Sovereign's tall wiry frame takes agile short cuts through the jungle of vegetables to get to the beach, where two windsurfers are rigged and ready for the first available breeze.

"If I hadn't started the garden before I started windsurfing I wouldn't have a garden, Sovereign said.

At first Sovereign was concerned that Lehoczy's presence would intimidate his grandchildren from learning. "But I found him to be so patient that one of the girls ran over and kissed him," she was so happy after mastering the technique, Sovereign recalls.

"It didn't matter how many times you made a mistake he'd stick by you until you got it," Sovereign said.

Finally two weeks ago Sovereign decided to have a crack at it on the dryland simulator that Lehoczy designed and built.

"This contraption that Nick started us on is a definite advantage," Sovereign said.

The first day Sovereign tried the board on the wet stuff, "I sailed right out in the middle of the lake but I couldn't get back. Nick was going to rescue me, but I said no way, I'm going to get this thing back."

"Some how" Sovereign managed to turn it around and get back to shore.

"It was just such a thrill to come skimming back to the beach. I said to my daughter, 'I wouldn't trade that thrill for $500.' I was quite outspoken about it."

Sovereign's demonstration for the Echo was admirable. But like all beginners 50 years his junior, Sovereign had the typical problems of coordinating changing wind directions and intensity, the feet and knees for balance, the placement of hands on the boom and the amount of strength needed to make it all happen.

Contrary to what most beginners think, strength is the least necessary component; however balance and agility are more crucial.

'It was such a thrill to come skimming back'

Once Sovereign relaxed on his board and let the wind do the work, a beaming smile appeared on his face as the board skimmed along the calm waters. As he sailed down the shoreline, admiring neighbours waved from their docks and watched him glide past.

Since Sovereign proved how easily it can be mastered many of his neighbours have booked lessons with Lehoczy.

Lehoczy said the Semple family on Haliburton Lake, signed up for lessons just after they saw Sovereign sail past their house.

Sovereign reports that his golfing buddy, Bob Miller said about him, "there's no fool like an old fool, 'course I'm sure he's just jealous," Sovereign said with a grin and a mischievous sparkle in his eyes.

Minden displays pioneer crafts

By HAMISH GORDON
Staff Reporter

This year's 121st Haliburton County Fair is dedicated to the International Year of the Youth, and will encourage the young to learn what being a pioneer was all about.

Organizer Miriam Barnes has rallied a troop of pioneer craftsmen and women to give "hands-on" demonstrations of their crafts at the Minden Fairgrounds on August 16, 17 and 18.

Barnes says "the focus of the displays and demonstrations is a hands-on approach to give young people a feeling of what it was like to be a pioneer. We really hope that people will participate in the displays and demonstrations that will be given by the local craftspeople."

The Echo was given a sneak preview of the rag rug weaving that Wendy Bateman will be demonstrating next weekend.

In the professionally oriented studio that Bateman has managed to assemble in the seven days that she has lived in Haliburton on North Buckhorn Road, Bateman explained how she uses no less than four different looms to produce some of the most innovative woven fabrics to be seen anywhere in North America.

Since Paula Lishman, a noted spinner, designed a method of spinning strips six years ago Bateman has been teaching people throughout the United States and Canada how to weave this unique and delicate material.

She has also been asked by the Hand Weavers Guild of America to teach her unknown technique at the Convergence '85 convention attended by 3,000 weavers.

But it is her flare for designing and weaving rugs, bedspreads and wall hangings from strips of used or new rags that will be drawing a lot of interest next weekend.

Rag rug weaving is a traditional pioneers' craft. It was a way of recycling old clothing into bedspreads or rugs for cold floors in log cabins.

When a farmer's clothes were at the point of disintegration, his wife would salvage all the available material and weave it through a loom.

Bateman now keeps a stock of 3,000 pounds of brand-new strips of remnant cloth for her own commissioned creations which sell from $45 for a small rug to $200 for a bedspread or large rug.

"I use new rag materials for wearability and washability," Bateman said.

But "it's the variety of materials and how you put them together which is what makes" woven rag rugs unique.

Wendy Bateman, who practises a pioneer craft of rag rug weaving, is one of a number of artisans who will display their skills at the annual county fair coming up on the weekend of August 17 and 18 in Minden. She is shown with some of the 'rags' she uses on her loom to create designs.

Senior League

by Bert Harrison at Hyland Crest

Dear readers, I'm starting this letter on July 27 to tell you what is happening up this way.

We had no sing-song Friday afternoon; we had a two hour movie instead, which was really good. The name of the movie was "Misunderstood".

After being gone for quite some time it is good to have Pearl Lyle back again. She is able to come to the dining room and sit at her table.

We were all saddened here when we learned of the passing of Mrs. Della Curry, a lady we held most dear. Our deepest sympathy to all friends and relatives both far and near.

We are always glad to see Neil Walker when he comes to visit Hyland Crest. Neil is a fine young man and we wish him all the best.

A happy event is taking place in Hyland Crest this 27th July day. Mrs. Beatrice Gilbank is celebrating her 95th birthday. Many are coming to honour her and their respects to pay. When Mrs. Gilbank first came to live at Hyland Crest she didn't like it at all. Now she takes in all activities and is the belle of the ball. She has a daughter, Jean, and a son-in-law, Harry Cowan, who comes in to see her every day and never lets her down. She is a gracious lady, we wish her all the best, and as the days go rolling by she will be blessed.

It is good to have Mrs. Brentnell back at the dining room table once more, she had a bad fall and was feeling pretty sore.

There was a lot of activity around here this weekend at Hyland Crest. Some people came to visit relatives and some had special guests.

On Monday, July 29, the Gallery hosted its third annual Art Auction. This year's was a huge success. Seating capacity was filled as many came to bid on the many works of art and craft. Both bidders and lookers had an enjoyable evening.

Presently, the Gallery is showing "Northern Landscapes and Precious Metals". Our main gallery features the works of John Joy, William Sherman, and Murray Stewart, three artists who paint landscapes of the Haliburton area. We are also fortunate to be showing works by the Group of Seven from the Canada Packers Collection. The Waitingroom Gallery features a jewellery exhibition together with the colourful batiks of Sarah Hale. This exhibition can be seen until September 14.

A morning of fun is planned for Friday, August 9. The Gallery, together with the Municipality, is hosting "Junior Olympics" at Head Lake Park. Children should meet at the park at 9 a.m. for a morning of fun and athletics.

Powerboats, skiers reign at Kennisis

By STAN LESCHINSKY

The Kennisis Lake Cottage Owners Association Regatta continues to be a focal point of activity around the lake on the August civic holiday weekend. A large number of participants and an apparently larger crowd of spectators gathered at Everitt's Marina for the 34 events that were conducted on Saturday, August 3.

The morning events consisted mainly of swimming competitions with the youngest being under six years of age. The marathon swim for the Harper Trophy again drew a large number of swimmers with Rhonda Kozak setting a high standard for future winners. A notable performance was also given by young Chris Hewitt, who, at the age of nine, was able to complete this grilling swim. Scotty Morrison was on hand to present the Perry Morrison Trophy to winner Ian Ball from a group of water-soaked log rollers.

The sun continued to shine warmly over the afternoon events as competition heated up in the novelty and power boat events. Crowds enjoyed watching the keen competition ranging from 10 H.P. and under class to sea-flea and culminating with the high power boat race for the Curry Trophy. Barry Pierson, Joel Sutton and Jeff Edwards gave a strong challenge to winner Larry Everitt in his impressive SL25 entry. Good fun was had in a wide range of novelty events. The north shore cottagers went home happy after finally defeating south shore cottagers in the annual tug of war event.

Regatta organizers Stan Leschinsky, Doug Lenart and Barry McCann expressed thanks to all who were involved for their help and co-operation in making this year's regatta a success. A special note of thanks also went to Wendell Wood and Larry Blanchard who were in attendance with the ambulance during power boat races, and Gary Benson, Doug Day and Liz Wenger, who have helped throughout the years with the regatta.

Everitt lapped the competition

It was a zany fun day for Drag Lake people

By AL FERGUSON

Old Sol favoured the Drag Lake Property Owners Association annual sports festival August 3 and 4 as all ages and stages of participants and spectators enjoyed the festivities carefully prepared by the many volunteers.

Ced Hurd Memorial Swim

Saturday at 11 a.m. swimmers ages 9 and up entered the calm, clear lake at Blueberry Island to compete in the fourth annual Ced Hurd Memorial Swim. Starter, Jim Fink, prepared the contestants for the mile swim with a short pep talk and followed with the traditional call -- Are you ready? -- Go!, as in the fashion of the Oxford/Cambridge boat race. The swimmers, including three entrants from Camp Illahee encouraged forward by comrades in two blue pacer canoes, stroked their way across the water. Across the lake, timer Bill Wilson stood ready to call out the official time to recorder Nancy Wilson, as each swimmer had touched the Podmore dock.

Barbara Lyons, organizer of the swim, presented the victory medallion and annual plaque to Kelly Richardson, time 31 minutes and 27 seconds (31:27), a tie for second place gave honours to Judy Iannucci and Tara Murphy, time 34 minutes and 46 seconds, 34:46. Third place position was won by Sarah Rimmington, time 35 minutes and three seconds (35:03). Barbara, assisted by Jim Fink, presented Ced Hurd Memorial Certificates to all swimmers.

Jim Fink spoke briefly on the essence of the Ced Hurd Memorial Swim, which is to teach self-reliance and self-sufficiency in water.

Fun Day - or How to Enjoy Yourself and end up with Egg on your Face

At twelve noon on Sunday big and little boats spilled out friends and neighbours on the shores of the Domain of Killien Resort. The field, loaned by Dante Lacarde for the afternoon, had been prepared for our use by the Municipality of Dysart et al. Organizer Alan Ferguson, assisted by Diana Ferguson, kept things moving by calling out to all gathered to compete with one another in good spirit. Terry Richardson stood ready to give out the prizes she had gathered through the generosity of local merchants. Judges Barbara and Craig Martin, Judy and Erin Neimann, and Dave LaFerle had the difficult task of deciding who would proudly wear the red, white and blue ribbons. Murray Muirhead and Murray Balkwill, wearing his usual hat as ice cream vendor, handed out cones to all and sundry.

A new event, which resulted in much fun and hilarity, was the bottle-feeding contest, using Pop-Shoppe cola.

Events, races and painted faces....

By BILL DRUMMOND

Under sunny skies and warm temperatures, a large throng of people crowded the beach at Haliburton Lake last Sunday to be a part of the Haliburton Lake Cottagers' Association regatta. Babies and great grandmothers alike seemed to join in and be a part of the carnival atmosphere.

From the 10:00 a.m. waterski start through to the final tug-of-war, the activities continued without a lull. The old favourite horseshoe pitch, swimming races, and sand castle competition were as avidly pursued as the recently introduced sailboard race and power boat races. Rounding out the program were the sailboat race, marathon swim and canoe races, balloon toss, three-legged races, clown face painting and the family sponge relay race.

HLCA president Bob Bevan said that the objective of the regatta is more family participation in as many events as possible. He also said that it is the aim of the association to promote in young people particularly, the active involvement in sports in general, and especially those sports which are available in Haliburton and presented at the regatta.

The regatta draw, which was organized by Nell Walchuk, was on record proportions this year, both in the number of tickets sold, and the number of prizes awarded. There were 24 prizes in all, the first three supplied by the association, and the rest generously donated by local merchants and businesses.

The income generated by the regatta plays a major role in the funding of HLCA activities which include maintenance of the Ft. Irwin Church Hall, the local fire pump, and this year, the acquisition and installation of children's playground equipment at the public beach.

Prize winners in the draws were:

1st - JVC VHS Video Cassette Recorder, Tom Currie; 2nd - Weekend for two plus $100 dining pleasure at Ramada Renaissance Hotel, Toronto, Vicki Gosse; 3rd - Kodak Model 8000 Disc Camera, C. Davies.

Dry DAD project is now working

By GERALD IRISH
Entertainment in the Club Room continues to draw large crowds. Last Saturday night Ed and Billy Picard displayed their many talents. Members and guests enjoyed the music, dancing and sing-along. Watch the announcement board in the Club Room for future entertainment.

Don't forget August 11 when Branch 129 will play host to 12 branches for the Zone F4 Drumhead. All regular and associate members are invited to march in the parade - in full Legion dress.

Tickets are now on sale for the September 21 beef draw. Only 200 tickets have been printed and buyers of these will have eight chances to win a prize.

Make plans now to attend the Legion family picnic and dedication of articles of faith on September 15. This day will start Legion Week activities. Watch for further announcements about the celebrations.

Project DAD is underway and working. This is the project where one member of a group is named the Designated Abstaining Driver and he or she drinks only soft drinks or coffee during the group's stay at the Legion. In this way the Legion is hoping to assist in the reduction of the numbers of drinking drivers.

There are still a few spaces available for the trip to the Warriors' Day Parade in Toronto. If you are interested, please sign up in the Club Room. The cost is only $11 return.

The August Highland Veteran Bulletin is in the works and should soon be in the mail. Watch for it and look for a few new features.

Since the closing of the Salvation Army Hall in Haliburton, there has been no place for a clothes drop or distribution centre. The Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 129, has donated the use of their buildings to be used by a group of interested and concerned citizens who are carrying on these needed duties. The building is located across the side road behind the Salvation Army Hall.

I am pleased to report to his many fans and friends that Ray Jenkins will be entertaining in the Club Room on Saturday evening, August 10.

The president and the executive of Branch 129 would like to thank all who worked to make our carnival such a success. All workers and their husbands or wives are invited to a buffet dinner on Friday, August 9 at 6 p.m. There is a list of workers posted on the bulletin board in the Club Room. Check the list and if your name has been inadvertently forgotten, please add it to the list.

be demonstrated by Ted Carson and his helpers from a local spinning and weaving group.

They will guide the potential young weavers through each process including shearing the fleece of a sheep, carding it, spinning and weaving it, Barnes said. Also on display will be cane baskets made by Ankaret Dean, folk art by Elaine Burbridge, tatting by Ruth MacBrien, snowshoe construction by Richard Nash, medicinal herb displays by Wayne Henderson, rug hooking and braiding by Carrie Drysdale, quilting by the Eagle Lake Women's Group, candle making by Mary Wallace, soap making by Esther Lee, and blacksmithing by Clay Daley.

But what is bound to be everyone's favourite is the ice cream making by Sharon Greer, butter making by Miriam Barnes and finally goat milking by Mimi Carson.

Cenotaph dedicated in ceremony

BY KELLY GRAHAM

Remembering again you say;
Time passes quickly by.
Not long ago we saw them go
To conquer and - to die.
They fought that we might all be free.
And justice still prevail.
So once again we honour
them
Our boys who did not fail.

With these words, written by Albert Elliott, Rotha Bryant began the dedication of the new Norland cenotaph. The cenotaph was unveiled during the dedication ceremony July 28 by M.P. Bill Scott and M.P.P. John Eakins. It stands as a tribute to not only those who lost their lives in the two world wars but those who returned safely also.

Approximately 100 people were present for the ceremonies as well as a Salvation Army Band, a Royal Canadian Legion Colour Guard and a contingent from the Navy League Cadet Corps, comprised of some of the local youth. Also on hand were Bill Scott, M.P., John Eakins, M.P.P., Dave Graham, local Reeve, Rev. Arthur Bartlett, Deputy Reeve of Lutterworth, Glynn Lewis, and Somerville councillor Clayton Cameron. All added to the occasion by saying a few words. Although it was said many different ways they all expressed admiration and pride, not only in those who fought the war but those who pulled together in erecting the cenotaph.

The cenotaph, which was built by Beachli Construction, has been a long-time goal for members of the Norland Horticultural Society. Almost a year ago an extremely successful fund-raising effort was begun which allowed the monument to become a reality.

During the ceremony a time was set aside for those who wished to lay a wreath for a loved one who may have fought and perished in the war. Wreaths were lovingly laid by the following people: Goldie McGinis for his mother, who is the oldest living mother of a veteran in this area (and one of the oldest in Canada); Grace England for all veterans on behalf of the Ladies Auxiliary; Dave Graham, on behalf of the township; Betty Davey, on behalf of the Women's Institute; Everett Fountain, on behalf of the United Church; Derek Spencer, on behalf of the Norland Firemen; Bill Moss, in memory of his grandfather, William Pike; Bill Wunker, on behalf of the Norland Baptist Church and Lloyd Taverner, who laid a wreath on behalf of the Cobocok Legion.

After the laying of the wreaths the service was wrapped up with an appreciation and the singing of God Save the Queen.

In summary the ceremony and cenotaph were and are extremely fitting tributes to the bravery of those who fought for our freedom so long ago. Bravery that was unsurpassed by people anywhere in Canada. Many people don't realize that per capita this area had the highest percentage of fighting men in the country. Rotha Bryant and other Horticultural Society members are to be congratulated for brining this fact home and doing a terrific job on the whole affair.

Remembering again you say;
And God remembers too!
One day He'll look in His Great Book
Our records there to view.
Oh, may He find in yours and mine
A life of service true!

On cauliflowers

My mind sometimes takes silly turns. The other night, as I was in the kitchen at Sam's, preparing some cauliflower for the evening's dinner, my brain got to wandering. If I was cleaning five heads of cauliflower just the feed the diners for one meal, and if every other restaurant/lodge in Haliburton happened to serve the same vegetable, let alone the private dwellings, it was possible that a few hundred heads of the stuff would be consumed in one night.

Surely, other towns, with other dining establishments and homes could also be eating the lovely white veggie. And then there's the cities. Just think of it. Restaurants by the thousands. Millions of apartments and homes. Gas and electric ranges, even microwaves busily conjuring up gastronomically delightful recipes such as

Monday fire is a 'total loss'

Gooderham News

by Mary Hadley

The Gooderham men's ball team had their first loss last Sunday when they played against Irondale. After eight wins, a loss can be expected. Even the Blue Jays suffer a defeat at times!

A total of 17 children registered for the four week Red Cross Swim Programme held at the Gooderham Public Beach. Joanne Coumbs is instructress again this year, assisted by Robbyn Billings. All the Red Cross levels from yellow to white as well as the Royal Life bronze are given.

Congratulations to Beverley MacDuff, our assistant to Elva Bates at the Municipal Office. She has been taking municipal administration courses from McMaster University, Hamilton, by correspondence. When the courses are successfully completed, she will belong to the Association of Municipal Clerk-Treasurers of Ontario.

She has recently completed her third unit and has earned first class honours in all three units. She hopes to complete her fourth and final one in November. This means often burning the midnight oil. Great going, Bev!

Leona and John Mackie have returned to St. Catharines after a month's visit with Leona's mother, Mrs. Mae Pickens, and other family members.

Recent visitors with Albert and Pearl Cary were family members: Ross; Madeline and Bob with Cathy, Vince and two children; Barbara; Cathy and Don; Bonnie and Dave; Joe and Laurie with their two children.

Their granddaughter, Angela, spent a week at Aspley with Susie and Scotty.

Other visitors with the Carys were: Dorothy Dewey; Norma Mitchell, Minerva and Emmerson Bonham.

The UCW will hold a bake sale in front of the library next Saturday, August 10 at 11 a.m.

Our volunteer firemen were busy last weekend. On Saturday night they answered a call which proved to be a false alarm. About 8:25 a.m. on Monday they responded to another call at the home of Michael Picov, formerly owned by Bill Cully. This fire resulted in a total loss and the cause is being investigated.

Recent visitors at Norma Fotheringham's cottage were: Brian, Mary Anne, Craig, and Karen Monaghan and Charlene McDonald of Pickering. Visiting Brian and Mary Anne were Judy and Dawn Woolcott of Oakville and Michael, Mai and Jim McGhee of Toronto.

The weatherman smiled on Gooderham for Horseshoe Days. With such ideal weather there was an excellent attendance. The midway was a special attraction for the children.

This annual event got off to a good start Friday evening with a well-attended dance.

On Saturday morning the canoe race on the Burnt River drew 12 entrants with a cheering section on the footbridge eagerly awaiting the first canoe. Winners of this strenuous event were: 1st, Alfred Trotter and Joe Billings; 2nd, Brian Noseworth and Ted Pilcher.

The afternoon events began when our deputy-reeve, Jane Franklin, assisted by the county warden, Dalton McDonald, declared the festival officially open.

Avery Spencer, whose services are invaluable, again acted as a very capable M.C. He has been with us for about 20 years and we do appreciate his help.

Winners of the talent contest in the 14 years and under were: 1st, the Kennedy Brothers, Trent and Troy, who sang while accompanying themselves on their guitars. Eddie Madill and Tim Granger tied for second place. Eddie impersonated Donald Duck while Tim recited the Gooderham Rap.

In the over 14 years, Ron Clark of Toronto took first honours playing the mouth organ and Robbyn Billings sang "The Rose" to take second place.

"Jake, the Fake" with his extra leg, entertained again. The crowd always looks forward to a repeat of his unique performance.

Of course the special feature is Horseshoe Pitching. The doubles took place on Saturday afternoon. Response to the registration was so great that eliminations had to be made. Out of 43 entries, only 20 could qualify. Time and space forbid more at this time. Results were as follows: 1st, Roy James and Mike Stevenson; 2nd, Frank Shewring and Don Troop; 3rd, Mark Vester and Phil Armstrong; 4th, Bruce Armstrong and John Phillips.

Winners in the singles on Sunday were: 1st, John Morrison; 2nd, Bob Hunter; 3rd, Don Troop; 4th, Bruce Armstrong.

On Saturday evening a good number of people danced to the music of "Moonshine".

The Demolition Derby was the feature on Sunday afternoon. Some 24 cars were entered. The drivers put on an exciting performance which pleased the crowd.

The best looking car was driven by Wade Adams of Wilberforce. Dave Burgess of Minden won the first heat. Second heat winner was Slavko Bajec of Thornhill while John Wilkinson won the third heat.

Slavko Bajec, as feature winner, received the grand prize of $500 while Dave Burgess placed second. Wendy Myttenar won the Powder Puff. Slavko Bajec topped his other wins with another - the free-for-all.

Tug-of-War between the demolition heats showed enthusiastic support for the favourites. The Gooderham boys won in their class while

A number of Sissons were home for the weekend, mostly congregating about the Ron or Blaine Sisson areas: Helen Brice and son Doug, the Gibbon family, the Byron Sissons of Elliot Lake, Bernard and Joyce of Toronto, and Sheila and Neil Reynolds of Oshawa.

A surprise 60th wedding anniversary took place recently for Arthur and Myra Barry in the form of a family reunion at the Guilford Centre. It was a complete surprise for the couple. The family members from Alberta were home so the celebration took place a few months in advance of the actual date. Over 60 people

Giant sidewalk sale set

Minden News

by Maizie Austin

Congratulations to Stan Baker, who graduated from Career College in Toronto with honours on July 25.

Mary MacDuff enjoyed a couple of days in Ohsawa last week visiting with family and friends.

The St. Paul's building fund will be holding a yard sale at 10 a.m. on Tuesday, August 13, next to the ambulance building in Minden. All proceeds go to the building fund.

There will be a one day shopping mall on the main street of Minden on August 10 as the merchants hold their giant sidewalk sale. There will be a treasure hunt, auction, balloons and clowns to add to the fun. During the day the second annual International Rock Bass Fishing Derby will take place on the Gull River in downtown Minden.

Household Hint: Fruit stains may be removed with a strong solution of Borax, or the stain moistened with water, rubbed with Borax, and boiling water poured through the fabric.

David's brother, Tom Archer of Stratford, was in a terrible car-motorcycle accident recently. We wish you a speedy recovery, Tom.

Recipe for this week - 24 Hour Salad: 1 egg, 2 tbsp. white vinegar, 2 tbsp. white sugar, 1 cup whipped cream, 1 cup grapes or cherries or fruit cocktail or 1 can peaches, etc. and 1 cup midget marshmallows. Beat together egg, vinegar and white sugar. Cook until thick. Before it cools, add marshmallows. When it cools add whipped cream and fruit. Make this up 24 hours before serving. Serve on chilled lettuce.

cauliflower with cheese sauce, cauliflower soup, scalloped cauliflower, to say nothing about the wok, or the raw veggie trays, or the twenty-four hour salads.

Doesn't it make you wonder? Or am I the only one with a weird mind? Just how do they do it? How in the world do a dwindling number of farmers, on less and less land, manage to grow enough vegetables to feed the hordes of consumers out there? Somewhere out there are hundreds of acres of nothing but cauliflower. And how many farmers will belly-up bankrupt before they can no longer feed us?

Ah...but you say you've got your own garden. Sure. And maybe for two, or even three months out of the year, you can eat those fresh grown vegetables 30 minutes after picking them. Maybe you can even grow enough to freeze and keep you through part of the winter. Chances are, you'd be eating a lot less cauliflower. It's not the easiest thing to grow. Your veggie menus would probably consist mainly of beans, carrots, and, of course, the ever prolific zucchini.

One year, I managed to plant, grow and harvest 24 heads of cauliflower. After that, the cabbage butterflies, cutworms and some exotic grub spread the word that there was a new feeding ground, and now I'm lucky to get a few heads.

We do have a couple of acres more we could devote to crops. But even my wonder tiller couldn't handle that. We'd have become "real farmers" and mortgage ourselves to the hilt to buy a tractor, a seeder, hire hands, buy a ton of insecticide, pray for proper weather, beg the bank not to foreclose when the crop failed, and finally, stand by helplessly as they take it all away.

All so the world can serve cauliflower au fromage.

Legion Warriors Dayready Minden News

Kinmount Korner

Royal Canadian Legion (Coboconk) Branch #519 would like to thank everyone who helped in their recent giant smorgasbord dinner. To the donors of the delicious food, to the folks who helped set up and clean up, to the servers and to the some four hundred and forty people who enjoyed the day, thanks once again for making another successful day.

Warriors Day Parade will be held August 17 at the Exhibition grounds in Toronto. There will be a bus leaving the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 519 in Coboconk at 6:00 a.m. sharp on that day and if you would like to go along please contact Norma J. Herbert at 454-8854. Adults only please and the fee is ten dollars each.

Congratulations to Mike Mills who recently was the recipient of a watch in token of being the most improved employee.

Don't forget where you can purchase a good wardrobe for very reasonable prices. It's the Women's Institute Hall on Highway 503 just east of Highway 35 in Norland each Tuesday and Saturday from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Here's a recipe you might like to try. Sautéed Mixed Vegetables: Makes six servings. 2 tbsp. butter or margarine, 1 tsp. olive or vegetable oil, 6 cups broccoli flowerets, 1 medium onion (sliced), 1 clove garlic (minced), 1 pound mushrooms (sliced), 2 tbsp. dry sherry, 1 tsp. prepared mustard, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1/8 tsp. pepper. In large skillet, heat butter and oil over medium heat until butter is melted. Add broccoli, onion and garlic. Cover and cook, stirring occasionally, 5 minutes or until broccoli is tender-crisp. Add mushrooms, cover and cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, in a small bowl, stir together the sherry with the remaining ingredients. Add the mixture to the skillet. Cook 2 minutes or until heated through. Yield: 4 cups. About 130 calories per serving.

Best wishes to your new Post Office "keepers", Mr. and Mrs. King. Bill and I have retired after over seven years on the job.

Stay well and happy, read the Echo and if you a better column than this one give me a call at 488-2353.

evenings from 7:15 to 8:15. Free admission.

The winners of the card party for the museum fund two weeks ago were the following: lone hands, Vera Ward; other winners were Jeanne Sears, Mary McKelvey, Sid Rowe and Joe Dollo. Last week's Thursday afternoon winners were the following: lone hands went to Jeanne Sears; others were Irene Houghton, Cora Hewitt, Bob Mitchell and Sid Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Milt Sears spent a weekend recently with Muriel Ewing and boys in Toronto, and the Glen Sears in Oshawa. They attended the Murchison Reunion at Heart Conservation Park.

The Canadian National Slalom Championships will be held at the Minden Wild Water Preserve from Friday, August 9 to Sunday, August 11. The top paddlers from across the country will challenge the water of the Gull River. This is a day out for the whole family.

If ignorance is bliss it is folly to be happy.

If you have any news for me to include in my column please call by 10 a.m. on the Monday so your news will appear in the Wednesday paper. Thank you.

Don't forget the flower and vegetable display at the Minden Horticultural Society annual flower show. It is entitled 'A Bouquet to Youth'. The show opens Thursday evening, August 8 at 7:30 and continues on Friday, August 9 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. This will take place at the Minden Community Centre.

Marg and Don Sisson of West Guilford, Cora and Cecil Sipe of Wilberforce, Wanda Kirkpatrick of Oshawa, Connie Hatkoski of Kitchener, Mary's daughter, Carolyn, son-in-law Murray and children, Wesley and Haley, of Oshawa, Jean Kirkpatrick and Sheryl of Oshawa, Teresa Shell of Oshawa, Wilda Priest of West Guilford, Betty and Connie Weber of Kitchener spent some time at the Mary MacDuff household over the weekend.

the Gooderham girls also were winners.

Draws were made at this time. Jeff Jones, a 12 year old visiting from California, won the canoe, while Amy Rosenberg, a five year old from Haliburton, took home the fishing tackle.

The quilt, crafted by the Senior Citizens' Club, was won by Ted Tompkins of Stoney Creek, who was holi-daying on Pine Lake.

In the baseball tournament Gooderham defeated Snowdon and later, Kinmount, to win the championship. Snowdon defeated Irondale to win the consolation.

In staging such an event many work tirelessly behind the scenes. Special thanks must be given to the Recreation Committee who did a super job in making this year's Horseshoe Days such a tremendous success.

which we have christened the "Lily Ann". We'll be open every Thursday from 9 a.m. till noon, in a building donated by the Haliburton Legion, just across the road from the old Salvation Army building. The men at the Legion have built us a drop box, and we welcome your donations. Our main aim is to keep the clothes in use, so prices are low enough to keep things moving. And of course we will continue the Sally Ann's practice of giving free whatever is needed to those who cannot afford to pay.

We are truly grateful for all the offers of help that we have received. It's plain that there's lots of energy available to fill everyone's needs - with people helping each other anything can be accomplished.

We'd like to invite everyone in the community to stop by the Lily Ann before going back to school - or whenever. We may have just what you need, and you can't beat the price!

Thank you to everyone.

IN MEMORIAM

ORR - Treasured memories of Uncle Jim who died on August 6, 1979 and Aunt Wanda who died on May 31, 1983.
Some day we will meet
them,
Some day we know not

We shall meet in a better land
And never part again.
Lovingly remembered by

Kimberly McNeil. 32-P-7

IN MEMORIAM

WELCH, DOT - In loving memory of a dear wife, mother, and grandmother,
who passed away August 10, 1983.

Two tired eyes are sleep-

Two willing hands are still,
For one who suffered far too much
Is resting in God's will.
You never said goodbye to us,
But perhaps it's just as well.
We never could have said goodbye
To one we loved so well.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Spike, Derwyn, Maxine and families. 32-P-7
